

We are concerned about possible plans of the FCC to expand LPFM service. It has come to our attention that expansion could endanger FM translator broadcasts. We currently enjoy K-LOVE FM radio on FM translator broadcast, a station that might be removed by the FCC decision. That would essentially deny us access to the type of religious broadcasting provided by K-LOVE. There is no local provider likely to fill the resulting gap in my area. This would in turn seriously impact on the ability of the religious community in our area and region to remain informed on issues of common concern, have a sense of connectedness to other parts of the country, and maintain connectedness with other parts of our region. In our view K-LOVE plays an indispensable role to the greater Omaha area, an area relatively isolated from other parts of the country by performing all three of these functions. We urge you not to engage in LPFM expansion plans that serve to undermine the "localization" intent of the expansion plans in the first place. Terry and Marnie Clark
